Speaker: Colette Pellissier

Saturday, August 24, 2024 • 8:45 - 10:15 am

Session Description

It's been said that whatever we're not willing to talk about is running everything. But talking isn't easy when we don't see eye to eye. If you, your colleagues or your team are struggling to get (and stay) on the same page — whether at a strategic level or during everyday interactions — please know that hope is not lost.

In this workshop you'll receive a DiSC Assessment and learn about an approachable and proven tool that is designed to foster greater self-awareness while also providing insight into how to relate well to others who have their own unique take on things. You'll even get a taste for how this tool can be used in your organization to promote more productive interpersonal relationships, improve communication, and build a culture based on mutual understanding and respect.

Workshop Objectives

1. Take the DISC assessment and experience an evidence-based approach that inspires and transforms interpersonal effectiveness in the workplace
2. Explore diversity through the lens of communication preferences and related behavior styles
3. Discover practical ways to foster individual, group & team connection, cooperation and collaboration

Leadership is in the spotlight: It's calling all of us forward. It encompasses the results we curate, the way others experience us, and the way we experience our life and our work. Ensuring over time that there is coherence between our evolving leadership intent and the quality of our leadership impact is our highest duty. And it's the stuff that deeply rewarding growth and development is made of.
